New ways of looking at Modigliani

On Monday, November 23, 11:30 – 12:30pm, to mark the centenary of Modigliani's death, Nancy Ireson, the Barnes's Deputy Director for Collections and Exhibitions & Gund Family Chief Curator, joins Simonetta Fraquelli, an art historian and specialist in 20th-century European art, to explore new perspectives on the artist.

Though underappreciated in his lifetime, Modigliani has since become one of the best-known and best-loved artists of the early 20th century. Following their groundbreaking exhibition at Tate Modern, London in 2017, Ireson and Fraquelli have continued to study the artist's work, encouraging examination of his methods and materials.

Registration is necessary! Registrants will be emailed an access link November 22.

When Food Became a Work of Art

On Tuesday, November 24, at 4:00 p.m. EST, Luca Cottini, Villanova University Associate Professor and Host & Creator of the Italian Innovators YouTube show, presents “When Food Became a Work of art”, in the framework of the 5th Italian Cuisine in the World Week.

What does food mean in painting? Why does it become a pictorial theme? In this lecture, Dr. Cottini will examine the meanings of painted food from Caravaggio and the Baroque still life genre to impressionism and 20th century Italian painting and photography, and will explore how the food imagery became a key cultural emblem of our age.
